

Bestøver-symposium

7. december 2017 kl. 9.00-17.30

Landbrug & Fødevarer
Axelborg
Axeltorv 3
1609 København V

Program

9.00-9.40 CHECK-IN AND LIGHT BREAKFAST

9.40-9.50 Introduction to the day - Vibeke Langer, University of Copenhagen & Anne E. Eskildsen, SEGES

9.50-10.00 Welcome speech - Carsten Rahbek, University of Copenhagen

PART 1: STATUS, TRENDS AND VALUE OF POLLINATORS AND POLLINATION

MODERATOR: VIBEKE LANGER

10.00-10.15 Key messages from the IPBES Pollination Assessment - Thor Hjarsen, IPBES in Denmark

10.15-10.35 Current status and recent trends of wild bees in Denmark - Claus Rasmussen, University of Aarhus & Henning Bang Madsen, University of Copenhagen

10.35-10.55 Bee keeping in Denmark: current status and environmental challenges - Ole Kilpinen, Danish Beekeepers Association

10.55 -11.15 The importance of wild bees and honey bees for crop yield and quality - Lise Hansted, University of Copenhagen

PART 2: DRIVERS OF CHANGE

MODERATOR: ANNE ESKILDSEN

11.15-12.00 Food and nesting resources as a limiting factor for wild bees in agricultural landscapes - Lynn Dicks, University of East Anglia

12.00-13.00 LUNCH

13.00-13.20 Competition between managed honey bees and wild bees - what do we know? - Yoko Dupont, University of Aarhus

13.20-13.50 Competition between wild bees and honey bees in crops – field studies from Sweden - Lina Herbertsson, Lund University

13.50-14.30 Current knowledge of pesticide effects on pollinators - Björn Klatt, Lund University

14.30-15.00 COFFEE BREAK

PART 3: MANAGEMENT AND CONSERVATION

MODERATOR: VIBEKE LANGER

15.00-15.15 Policy and strategies for pollinators in Denmark Ministry of Environment and Agriculture

15.15-16.15 "Coaching for Pollination action" – 4-5 practical examples on actions in Denmark for pollinators

Q&A sessions from expert panel (participants to be announced later)

16:15-16.45 What works in pollinator conservation? Recommendations based on current knowledge - Lynn Dicks, University of East Anglia

16.45-17.00 Was this useful & concluding remarks - Thor Hjarsen, IPBES in Denmark & N.n.

17.00-17.30 Networking and light snack